Grandparents and their grandchildren have always had a special bond, but living in a culture that has lost its moral compass, many parents are at a loss as to how to raise a child with moral values and a sense of decency, finding the adolescent years especially difficult. Within this vacuum, grandparents are becoming increasingly involved--and important--in providing the needed stability for their grandchildren. However, the culture in which grandparents find themselves is radically different from the one in which they were raised.

- helping your children in parenting
- distance grandparenting

- training children in anger management
- making a critical difference in the area of discipline
- giving grandchildren the love and security they crave
- special needs grandkids
